London, 5th February 2026 – The European Leveraged Finance Association (ELFA) is delighted to announce that Orrick, a global law firm, is becoming an Expert Panel partner. This adds to the panel one of the most active law firms in the UK and US in the CLO market – a firm well known for helping the market innovate. Orrick advises clients at the forefront of technology and innovation, energy and infrastructure, finance, and life sciences and healthtech. The Financial Times named Orrick among the top 10 most innovative law firms globally of the past 20 years.

Orrick is a market leader in CLOs, advising on a wide range of transactions including broadly syndicated and private credit CLOs, asset-based lending, rated feeders, CFOs, NAV and capital call securitisation solutions, and repackaging transactions. The team is among the most active in the market and is widely recognised for its role in shaping and executing complex and innovative first-of-their-kind CLO structures.

The firm is also at the forefront of advising clients on compliance with the EU and UK securitisation regimes and regularly engages with EU and UK policymakers and regulators on the impact of regulation on the CLO market.

Ed Eyerma, ELFA CEO said, “Orrick brings strong market leadership and insight across CLO transactions, policy and regulation, which will be of great value and benefit to our members. We look forward to working with them through our Partner Programme which includes ELFA Seminar Series events and webinars, reports and Partner resources.”

David Quirolo, partner at Orrick said: “We look forward to working with ELFA and its members. Our CLO team and broader Structured Finance group is highly active across the market, frequently advising on innovative and first-to-market transactions, and we look forward to contributing that experience and perspective to ELFA’s work.”
